

As a US taxpayer, I would like the FCC to consider regulations that force truthfull billing practices among cellular telephone companies. I believe that it is poor practice for companies to charge surcharges onto the bill without providing a detailed listing of the TOTAL cost to consumers (i.e. base cost + taxes + fees) in a clear and concise manner PRIOR to signing contracts. I feel that companies must advertise the TOTAL cost to consumers - not the base cost.

I also support this type of regulation on ALL communications -- cable, internet, telephone, etc. I believe that this type of billing is in the good of the consumer and society.
